

matters with Shunghee, previous to his own departure for the River Thames; whether he was going on an embassy of peace, and intended to take the greatest part of the men of his tribe with him. He was apprehensive that Shunghee would take advantage of his absence, and attack the people whom he should leave behind, unless Shunghee and he came to a good understanding before he went. I inquired if Shunghee and he had settled their differences to their mutual satisfaction. He replied that they had and that Shunghee had engaged not to molest his people during the period that he was from home, which, he expected, would be about 4 months.

The object of his present visit to the river Thames, was, to make peace between
