Mate to turn these Islanders out of the Ship which was done in a very cruel manner they were beat with a Ropes end turned over the Ships side and while clinging to the ship their hands were beaten they then swam to their Canoes which were already swamped and fourteen out of the eighteen were drowned at a short distance from the vessel, and this Deponent remonstrated with the Captain saying these men would be drowned unless they were assisted and upon a tack being made towards were the Canoes were it was too late, they having been drowned, from thence the Brig made the Island of Seebroovi the Chief of the Island came on board and offered to sell Captain Fodger some Sandal Wood for English Cloths; the Captain offered him a few Tokes, these the Chief refused to take, the Captain made a Prisoner of the Chief, and told him he should not go on shore until all the Sandal Wood the Chief had should be brought off, in the same Canoe with this Chief were two other Chiefs. He fired a musket at the Canoe to seize them also, but they escaped. Captain Fodger kept the Chief Prisoner until next day when his Subjects brought off all the Sandal Wood, they had about a Ton and half he then liberated the Chief and gave him only two puppy dogs and a piece of bad Otahite Cloth - from this Island proceeded to the Island of Anna and there shipped four men and from thence came to the Island of Arava, on the Twenty eighth of August the Tahitian and other coloured men of the Crew mutineer'd they killed Captain Fodger, William Gill and Christian Kisasky - Vanderkiste the Chief Mate was severely wounded and escaped out thro the Cabin Window into the Boat four others were wounded three more escaped to the Shore, the next day the mutineers put the wounded men on shore, These with the men who escaped were left on shore eight in Number. Mr. Vanderkiste John Mellon Edward Collyer John Queen, Robert Roway, Joseph Shell Jerry Thompson and John Riley seven of the Crew, were spared, six of whom were Europeans and one, Lascar the mutineers compelled these men to navigate the Brig to Otahite and left the said Eight men on the Island altho earnestly requested to buy them off. the mutineers told the remaining Europeans if they persisted
