

When large parties come to visit us for the purpose of trading, the Smith is instructed immediately to attend to their wants. In the next place he goes on with the work which immediately relates to the Settlement and then as he has opportunity he does such things as are wanted by individuals, should any complaints be made I have only to say that I have had no more than six Servies and a small bar to coast made upon made for my own use since I saw you. With respect to the distribution of Axes &c after they are made, I do not withhold any from my colleagues when I have any by me. I assume an exclusive right of giving orders to the Smith, I only have endeavoured to overrule any thing that might interfere with the above plan.

Should you wish me to continue at Lappoona, you would do well to direct that the Timber for my House and school may be prepared and sent over from Whiting with the least practicable delay. I doubt Mr. Hall will never have time to finish the House. It is too small for him. It would be a good thing if we had a Carpenter for this purpose, and to teach the Natives to make
