

ago the King George was in Company with the Jefferson on that cruise off the North Cape of New Zealand — that on that occasion the King George received some Potatoes from shore, that a native Chief named Rangarow & Otahetan Iem came on board about the same time, ~~likewise~~ ^{believes} Rangarow remained on board two or three Days but is not certain whether the Otahetan remained on board all that time; recollects Rangarow and the Otahetan being put on board the Jefferson after that, and that, that was the last time that the King George's Boat were on shore; don't recollect whether the Jefferson's boats went on shore after that time; was in the Bay of Islands previous to that in Company with the Jefferson, on the evening or two before the King George's Departure; from which place there was a supply of Potatoes furnished her from the shore — went to Cook's Straits in about ten months afterwards, where the King George lay about three weeks — don't recollect that previous there any difference existed between Mr Jones and ^{the} Ship's Company, that while the Vessel lay there, Mr Jones was in the daily habit of sending a boat on shore to take to the Vessel the wives and Daughters of the Natives — on most of which occasions Mr Jones went himself, having ~~sent~~ with him at sometimes one boat, other times two boats. — Witnup generally accompanied Mr Jones at those times, last time witnup accompanied Mr Jones on that occasion New Zealand George, Isaac Evans, William Harkley, James Townsend & James Whiting were in the Boat, all of whom
