

10 his father; and I pray God to prepare him by his Holy Spirit, to become a zealous and faithful servant of our Master.

Assure our friends, who with you signed your united letter of Oct. 25th, that we gather confidence from your hearty cooperation with us, and leave the cause of our Lord as Master in your hands. May we here and you on the scene of action, continually conduct our plans to His blessing. It would be a great satisfaction to the Com^t: if you would (say as near to each Quarter Day as may be) send us an Official Letter, agreed on at a Meeting, conveying a statement of proceedings, with remarks and suggestions arising from them. This paper might be regularly prepared at the time, and would be ready for dispatch by the first opportunity that should occur, a duplicate of it being sent by the next subsequent conveyance. By this means a regular series of information would be likely to be secured to the Com^t: The corresponding Com^t: should, at the expense of the Fund, pay copyists if necessary.

Possibly you may find some well-disposed persons willing to aid our exertions by subscriptions and Benefactions to the Fund; and it might be well worth, while I conceive, to print, annually or oftener a Report of proceedings, with an appeal to Christian feeling in behalf of the Heathen, with a list of your Com^t:s, and contributions, and an abstract of the C. M. Society's Proceedings. This would gradually create an interest in favour of the plans and objects of the Society, and might ultimately lead to a public and efficient cooperation; and if not, it would yet serve as a centre of union of all that is good and praiseworthy in the Church. Of whatever you print,
