

many thanks for the various curiosities. They excite much wonder, any other that you can send, particularly such as illustrate the moral state of the people, will be very acceptable

I enclose a letter for the Governor on the subject of Robert Williams, which you will please to wrap up and present to his Excellency.

We were in hopes that Mr Kendall's appointment as a Magistrate, a printed copy of which is before me, would have repressed the evils very much which it was designed to counteract: but, by one of his latest Letters, he himself appears to have been grossly abused by a Captain Parker, of the Phoenix Whaler.

Your colleagues, who with you addressed me, will please to consider this as an answer to your joint communication.

It appears from Mr Kendall's Letters that your injunctions prohibitory of private trade have not been strictly attended to. On this subject of private trade as well as on all others which concern the regulations of the Settlement, the Com^{rs} entirely trust themselves with you and their other friends, and insist on a strict adherence to your directions.

Your application in behalf of Richard Stockwell shall be forwarded to some friends at Bristol, his native place. I was lately applied to by those friends in his favour; my reply was, if he was penitent
