

106.

New South Wales } George Williams voluntary To wit } maketh oath on the Holy Evangelists, an oath, that he came to this Colony a Free Settler on the recommendation of John Barrow, Esq. Secretary to the Admiralty to Earl Bathurst, in the year 1813 This deponent further maketh oath and saith that he is a printer by profession, and that he was Chief printer to the Government at the Cape of Good Hope during the greater part of the time, that Colony was in the possession of the British Government previous to the peace of Amiens. This deponent further saith, that since his arrival in New South Wales, he has employed more or less up to the present time by Mr.
 George Howe, Government printer, at the printing office under his direction at the salary of two pounds sterling weekly during the time this deponent was so employed, which employ this deponent left on the eighth day of March 1817 in consequence of the notice received by him to quit the said employ, by order of His Excellency the Governor, Lachlan Macquarie, Esq. to the said George Howe to dismiss him from his employ — This deponent further maketh oath and saith, that on Thursday the second day of January, or on Friday the third day of January, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, he was working in the printing Office of Mr. George Howe, Master printer situate in George Street, Sydney, and this deponent further maketh oath and saith that John Thomas Campbell, Esq. Secretary to the Governor of the Colony, came into the printing office on the aforesaid second day of January, or on the aforesaid third day of January and this deponent further saith that he saw John