

being a duplicate of a letter said to be sent by a ship that is not yet arrived. It was dated Nov^r 17. informing me that my letters had arrived relative to the title - I have no greater wish, than to approve myself worthy of the Confidence of the Society, and to the Head of the Church - Should I err, in any thing the Society will take my peculiar situation into their favourable Consideration, and make allowances for human weakness, and human Feelings.
I have no Counsellors - my Friends stand afar off, for Fear - and I have no wish that they should place themselves in the painful situation I am in - I should not have troubled you with these Documents, had I not apprehended, that the Enemy would take advantage of me, by transmitting the letter of Mr. Campbell's Name to the Colonial Department, with such Observations as those in Power, are capable of making which might operate to my Prejudice, if there was no notice taken of the Circumstance by me. The Object of Mr. Campbell, in that Letter is to man me up with the Dregs of solitary
