

Worth Committee when I was at the first recommended to its notice, so, as far as my own conduct is concerned, I wish to act. I wish to make no concessions to my colleagues for any thing which I may at any time have done improperly towards them. In my present difficulties I wish to yield, rather than to strive. I have told them long since I sincerely lamented that my name had ever been noticed, as having any share in the divisions which have afflicted this settlement. I acquainted Mr. Marsden by letter sent to him a week ago in the active, and I now acquaint you, with the obstacles which lay in the way of my usefulness, being sensible, that you are the best able and willing to remove them. I cannot be happy long here and sit still. I trust God will give me more grace, and more firmness, than to desire to continue with my large family and wife
