and therefore he knew it would be no use to give us any. They said your God had given you Cattle and Sheep and Horses, and many other things, which he has not given us - was he our God as well as yours he would not have acted so partially - he would have have given us Cattle to be as well as you.
This brought us to the Creation, of the world and to Noah's Flood, from which I shewed them ^{how} the different Animals came to be spread over the world. and told them that England were for a long time without Cattle &c. but in due time God had given them to England; and now he was going to give all these things which we had to them, as they had already got Cattle Horses &c. They then replied, but we are of a different Colour to you, and if one God had made us both, he would not have made such a mistake, as to make us of different Colours - This I endeavoured to explain also,
