Sunday 4 April
A delightful fine day approaching to a calm. It has been a good day to my soul. Christ has been exalted and my soul fed. In the morning Mr Kemp preached from the 9th Chap Luke pt. 22nd the Son of Man must suffer many things. In the afternoon Mr Butler not being very well, I took his class of the poor Crews we read Verse for Verse the 25th Matthew and afterwards I read part of a Sermon from 2 Corinths 1 part of 9 Verse "God is faithful" - but we were interrupted by an officer not favourable to the cause of Christ. by his ordering the Hammocks to be piped down - the men were very orderly and attentive, and some of them I believe are hungering after the things of Jesus - They Received with joy a few tracts I gave them, and asked for Bymn books, being desirous to learn to sing. - Gods Almighty bless them - I feel a love towards them - and would rather be in some of their places, with Chains around my legs, than clothed in purple standing in the shoes of some of the rich Gluttons in the land we have left behind - Josi + Peterree I am sorry to say have no desire after the great salvation proclaimed in the Gospel. as far as I can see into them they seem to have agreed together to hold fast the Superstitions, Vanities of their Country, and to disown what is said to them about Jesus - O Lord I know that it is not by might nor by power but by my Spirit, saith the Living God - I should be a double hearted. I was grieved this morning to hear that some Josi, out of whose lips
