

Children which was unjust. Allow me to say that you form an unscriptural opinion upon this point.
The punishment of your children is a natural consequence of your own transgression in the case in question.

I will visit says God "the sins of the Fathers upon their children". There are many thousand in Port Jackson who have violated the laws of their Country, but the law does not in the punishment of Offenders take into consideration the Friends and connexions of the guilty, nor can the Society upon the same common principles of Justice, consider the children of Missionaries in their service when they violate their solemn engagements with the Society. No person will regret your unhappy situation more than myself I had flattered myself so much, and so often, with the idea of your usefulness amongst the Heathen, that I am now, and have been distressed for a long time at the events that have happened, and at the misconduct not only of yourself, but others also in the mission. The subject is too painful for me to dwell upon, I must therefore leave you in the hands of a Merciful God, who can pardon and absolve all them that truly repent and turn unto him.

I remain

Dear Sir

Rev. Mr. Kendall

your sincere Well-wisher

(Signed) Samuel Marsden.
