

if those who are sent out are too proud or too idle to teach them. The Missionaries did not come here merely to teach them their Letters or even to read but to unite the knowledge of the civil arts with that of Christianity. Look at your demand for trade upon the Society and what did you want it for? If you only could or would see this subject as I see and feel it you would act very differently. I can only say, lay my Letter before the Society submit the matter in dispute between us to the Society's decision - I shall be perfectly satisfied with any directions they may give you whatever they may be - and when you have obtained the sanction of the Committee to act as you think best without any controul I shall trouble you no more on this subject. while I am responsible to the Society I must be allowed to exercise my own judgment, If I give you any improper orders or impose upon you any unreasonable duty you have the Society to appeal to, who will judge impartially - I purpose to send a copy of this Letter to the Committee you will say what you think proper in your justification my only wish is, to induce you to do what
