

From this paper I have learnt, that beside the usual hours spent in the school, he generally occupied two hours in the evening, in religious instruction, drawing &c. — He was, while thus engaged, all attention and obedience, frequently expressing his anxiety to improve, that he might be able to instruct his countrymen, and that, especially in the knowledge of a Saviour. — He often declared his astonishment at the goodness of God, in bringing him from a state of darkness, into the marvelous light of the Gospel. He spoke with great gratitude of the instruction he had received; and often intimated his hopes that he would be able to assist Mr. Kendall when he returned.

When asked, one day, whether he would like to continue in England, he instantly replied, with much feeling, "Oh no!" I can do no good here; but I may do some good in my own country."

One day, after having been at my house, where I had shewn him a collection of Indian Idols, he said to Mr. Hazard, on his return, "O! what a blessing it is to be delivered from these vanities, to serve the living and true God!" In the months of October & November he was frequently unwell.
