

Three of the war canoes with Moodewhip's tribe from Shukianga, returned from the river Thames, where they have, for several months, been spreading death and destruction around them. - They landed about half a mile from the Settlement, got some food, and then proceeded towards their homes, to our great joy.

They had upwards of 100 prisoners of war with them, who might generally be distinguished by their sorrowful countenances.
 Some of them were weeping and mourning bitterly - one woman in particular, before whom they had, with savage cruelty, placed the head of her brother, stuck upon a stick.
 She sat upon the ground before it, and the tears ran down her cheeks in streams.

We saw several other heads stuck upon sticks about the camp, and we understood that they had many packed up in baskets.

These Canoes brought the news of the death of Tettee, a Chief, and son in law to Shunghee: he was slain in fight.

Tettee was the most civilized, best behaved and most ingenious and industrious man, whom we have met with among the Nuzulans.

His brother Spoo, a fine young man, is also among the slain. - This has created grief in the family. - Tettee's wife and Mattooka his brother are watched and bound to prevent them from putting an end to their lives. Spoo's wife hung herself, on hearing the news. - Shunghee's wife has killed a "Cook" or prisoner of war; which is customary on these occasions.
