an hour afterwards E-nakkee however came back again to the Ship. When he came upon deck Tippookee was sitting upon it.
We sat on the opposite side - neither of them spoke for a consid-erable time. I was going to address them when Temmaranga requested I would not speak, but leave them to their own Feelings - He sat upon the Deck and Towroba observing their looks which portraied contending Passions - At length one of them broke silence, and addressed the other. They now gave vent to their feelings, and mutually reproached each other - and advanced to meet each other with much apparent rage and sneers and contempt. At times they seemed as if they would strike each other. Temmaranga and Towroba put in a word between them now and then - After they had said all they wished to say, they became gradually more cool, and at length came to a Reconciliation, when Captain Downie invited them into the Cabin, where they took something to eat and drink together to the satisfaction of all Parties.

After my return to the Commander Captain Downie informed me that <sup>the</sup> Arkeee was going to kill Amoppa a subordinate Chief in the Bay, and that he was determined to take his head off - Amoppa was accused of a Theft, in stealing a Mat belonging to the Arkees Son and the Arkeee had been for several days making Spears and sharpening his Instruments of war. Towroba also told me that the Arkeee would kill A-moppa. A-moppa came and begged I would intercede with the Arkeee, and speak to him in his behalf. I therefore requested Towroba to go to the Arkeee, with a message from me, to tell him I wished the difference between A-moppa and him to be accommodated without coming to any battle, and begged of Towroba to use his influence with him also.
In a few days I received a message from the Arkeee thro Towroba and Temmaranga to say that he would not put A-moppa to Death, but that their difference must be settled in a public meeting.

Very early in the Morning of the 11th of before I was up, A-moppa called at my Cabin window, I got up and inquired what he wanted when he informed me that the meeting between him and the Arkeee was to take place that day, and requested I would be present, The Surgeon, Mr. Bogue and Mr. Holliday Captains Clerk after we had got breakfast, we went in one of the Ships Boats accompanied by Mr. James Downie - A-moppa who had remained along side followed us with his friends in 16 Canoes - The Arkeee was about 3 Miles off at the Head of one of the Coves. When we arrived the Arkeee was prepared to receive us. A-moppas men
