

15 as an act, of common justice, to his relatives and friends 1820 if they continued their cruelties. I told them on my return Aug 27 I would accompany him to some of the Chiefs of the Hunghees Tribe, and hear what they said, and what they intended to do. He was pacified with this proposition, and said he would overlook all that they had done, if they would abstain from such murders and Robberies in future. We now proceeded to join the party on the opposite Hill, who returned with us to Wangaree, where we arrived about three O'clock in the After-noon. Temmaranga had now got amongst his own Friends, who both wept and rejoiced. Several of them were much afflicted for the Murder of their relatives, and the plunder of their Farms, and were also under apprehensions lest the Napiers should attack them. Wangaree is situated at the head of a small harbour that runs up several miles in land, into which a fresh water river falls - Up this River there are very fine spars; but I doubt whether there is sufficient shelter and depth of water in any part for shipping of large dimensions. Small Vessels may Anchor in several places. The Harbour is situated about Ten miles to the Northward of Pream Head. We remained all night at Wangaree a great part of which Temmaranga and his friends talked over their troubles.

Aug 28 28th This morning we prepared for our departure - The Chief furnished us with a Canoe well manned, and we proceeded down the Harbour. The morning was very threatening. After we had been about an hour in the Canoe it began to blow and rain very heavy which compelled us to put into a small Village situated on the left side of the Harbour - We remained here about two hours when the storm moderated, and we proceeded but were afterwards forced on shore again, lower down the Harbour from the tempestuous weather, where we kindled a fire on the beach and sheltered ourselves as well as we could from the storm, as there was no prospect that we should be able to quit our present situation tho' an uncomfortable one till the following day.

Aug 29 29th This morning as the storm had abated, we embarked in the Canoe about two hours before day light, and arrived before the Sun rose ^{afterwards here Harcourt Anstey was R.M.} at the residence of the Head Chief whose name is Weyee ^{Weyee [Wehi]}, a near relative of Temmarangas.
Weyee Weyee is an old man, very tall, stout, and upright,
