

18th. arrived about nine at the Place where the Road turns off to the sea shore, we rested, as it was the Sabbath and remained all the day at the landing place the Inhabitants on both sides the River appeared to have fled, for we did not see an Individual as we went up the River, nor a single canoe -

19th. We rose early this morning and told the Hog Tottoko had given me before we set off on our Journey - after our Hog was dropped I gave a quarter of it to the ^{Men} ~~men~~ belonging to the canoe - and paid them for their trouble in bringing us up the River - sent a present to the chief natives - they present they received for themselves and chief made them very happy. We now packed up our Baggage and Provisions and set off for the sea shore which we reached in about two hours - the Road is pretty good and the distance about 6 miles. The morning was very fine when we reached the sea side and the water smooth. As soon as we came down to the Beach we saw an Hill called Mouganssee which lies about half way between Mopehanga and Mupood and is
