

Nov 7

to let Mr Kendall have them, and report to me and the Society the first opportunity all the circumstances - at the same time remonstrate with Mr Kendall, and inform Shungee that if the Missionaries could not remain quietly in New Zealand they would return to Port Jackson. It is uncertain what Mr Kendall will do in his state of mind, as he appears to have no control over his passions - at the same time I think Shungee is too just a Man to support any unfair demands which Mr Kendall might make upon the Stores -

He feels great regard for Mr Kendall, and under strong obligations to him, for indulging his passion for War - But in all my conversations with him relative to Mr K's conduct, Shungee always condemned his unlawful intercourse with the Native Woman - On the commission of this crime I argued the necessity of Mr Kendall's removal from New Zealand, that he had violated our customs and laws, and made our God angry - Shungee would reply, he has put away the woman now, and our anger should cease - The removal of the Rev^d J. Butler Mr Correll & their families from New Zealand will have a good effect upon the Natives - It will convince them, that Missionaries must act properly, or they will be dismissed, and sent away.

Nov 8

I - This morning I had a long conversation with the Rev^d J. Butler on his own unhappy situation - I told him from what had past he never could return again to New Zealand, nor did I think he could remain in