

Takes his leave & says Balladley my leave of Miss^{rs} Galt King and their families and the natives of Rangitikei who accompanied me on board - I was very happy to learn that he had behaved well to the missionaries since his return from England - we had much conversation upon the state of New Zealand - He told me he had accompanied Munghee once in his wars since his arrival from England against Enakhee or which Enakhee was killed - and that many fell on both sides, but he was determined never to go to war again - Munghee pressed him to go with him in his present Expedition, but he had refused - He said, he wished the English would come, and take possession of the Country as he was sure there would be no end to their public calamities until there was a Power sufficient to prevent those evils of war - I have heard many Chiefs express the same wish - Wycatto attends now to the cultivation of his Farm, and to his wife and children of whom he is very fond - On our arrival on board the Transport I presented him with some ^{implements} made, and a few edge tools for which he was very thankful - I assured him, if he did not go to war he should have the present of a blanket every year, or some other Article of value - that I should be inquiring after his conduct, and if I found that he attended to Agriculture I would remember him - Wycatto returned so thoroughly gratified with our interview
