reasoned with him, a little until he Mr. Kendall jumped up in a rage and took his hat and walked out of the house using some strong language to Mr. Williams - I got up and told Mr. Williams we had better take our departure My name in Medford was ever more under the influence of Gascarity, than Mr. Kendall is, of a wicked and debased spirit - Captain Walker wished to know Mr. Kendall's intentions relative to his Embarking, but I could not tell him, for he would not inform me - I am surrounded of Mr. M's situation of every good and painful affliction on every side - I can do nothing with Mr. Kendall and what I shall do with the Rev. J. B. I cannot tell - His conduct must not be put over my I must call him to account for it, and I can apprehensive he will not be able to justify him self, which will leave me no alternative but either to suspend him or dismiss him altogether either will be very painful - I also feel great anxiety lest I should be obliged to leave both the Rev. J. B. & Kendall in W. Seddon - If Mr.

Kendall puts his throat in execution <sup>and</sup> he goes and live with Thompson his mind must be lent upon evil, and it is unpepable to foresee what may be the consequences - I have experienced a thousand times more than I needly and verities from the misconduct of the Europeans than from the whole of the natives put together - The natives as a body of
