My Dear Sir,

It is with feelings of great regret. I now tell you I am obliged to decide upon remaining till next summer for several days. I had so much concerned my affairs in a train for being settled. That we had packed up almost all our things - in full expectation of being with you before this time. but the Lord has ordered it otherwise, no doubt for a wise purpose - and as we are constrained to remain for some months longer - it is my wish, as my time will
