

Mrs Marsden the letters he had in charge the list of stores shipped by the Society was afterwards handed to me which were all safely landed and warehoused under my charge, there has been no opportunity for Mr. Cuwll to proceed to New Zealand on his mission, but as the Abner may be expected to return here by the end of the month I will lose no time in equipping the vessel for the voyage by which time I sincerely hope our friend Mr. Marsden will have returned to his anxious family and friends from his pious and very arduous labors at New Zealand:

I have great hopes Mr. Cuwll will during his stay here discover the process of manufacturing the leaf of the Glass plant so long boasted of by a Man of the name of Williams, a Council sent twice from England, and who has been very incorrect in his expressions against the Directors for sending Mr. Cuwll to instruct the Natives and which can be only gratifying to those persons here inimical to the great and good cause you are engaged in; I have supplied Mr. Cuwll with whatever necessities he has applied for from time ^{to} ~~and~~ time, and shown him such civilities as any humble circumstances admit of. As

I remain
