

vis the natives have behaved well. I admit the missionaries have had their trials; they have had their fears and alarms - but their Distresses and Anxieties have principally originated from their own hearts fears or Passions; and not from the natives. Mr. Lowell and his wife have also lived at Kangsheehoo - He is one of the most idle men I have ever known - He has done nothing during his residence there that I could learn, either from himself or others; and seldom met his Colleagues on the Sabbath Day. He lived in Mr. Wendell's House when he cohabited with the native woman; and appears to have advocated Mr. Wendell's Cause - Mr.
Lowell was quite a young girl when he married her, about 16 years old. He never mentioned to me that he intended to marry until after he was married - She was not calculated for a missionary's wife, from her want of Experience, and her youth. Her Father and Mother were both Libertines, and very immoral in their Lives, so that she
