

could have no advantages from Education — Mr. Corwell was very intimate with Captain Irvine, when the corresponding Committee existed, that he paid little attention to what I said to him at that time. From his conduct in U.S. wishes I considered him an idle man, and totally unfit for missionary work, tho' I did not feel myself authorized to prevent his going to the Place of his original Destination, as he had his Friends in the Colony, who would have I been ready to have condemned my conduct had I done so. I gave my sentiments freely to my Colleagues the Rev. Mr. Hill & Carter right before Mr. Corwell embarked, and told them he would never do any good. Mr. Hill had been very kind to him, and he proved very ungrateful, and seldom went to Church on the Sabbath, so that he has proved a Drone in the mission.
With respect to the Rev. G. Butler, he was always a man of a violent overbearing Temper. He could not bear the least Control. made his Colleagues very unhappy by his unkind conduct to them. I believe he was the principal Cause
